This is the first major gallery exhibition dedicated solely to mobile photography featuring international artists in the Midwest U.S., curated by Amy Leibrand (<http://iphoneogenic.wordpress.com/2012/04/09/artist-of-the-week-amy-leibrand-thisspace/>) (@ thisspace (<http://iphoneogenic.wordpress.com/2012/04/09/artist-of-the-week-amy-leibrand-thisspace/>)).

iPh0 caught up with the curator of EXPOSURE, Amy Leibrand. Here's few things she had to say about how the show came to be and the excitement behind curating the show.

Leibrand:

In early February I released an open call on Facebook, which I had to close after less than 2 days because the response was overwhelming. My initial goal was to have 30 local artists and 10 national/international artists, which within about a day became 30 national/international. It was really difficult to turn away artists that wanted to participate but the gallery only has so much wall space. I'm learning! I hope to make this an annual event now that I know the excitement is there!

To harness the energy in the global mobile photography community, EXPOSURE will feature 300 photographs by emerging and acclaimed artists, including the 2013 Mobile Photography Awards' Photographer of the Year, Sarah Jarrett (<http://iphoneogenic.wordpress.com/2013/02/15/mpa-winner/>). Each participating artist will display five images, in an 8-inch by 8-inch format. The visual consistency of new and seasoned artists displayed side-by-side emphasizes the collaborative and inclusive nature of the global mobile photography community.

CS Gallery is made up of working artists and educators whose mission is to provide an opportunity for artists of all levels and genre to present, market, and sell their works. The gallery serves as an experimental space for innovative artists, and was featured in the We Are Juxt article, Emergence of Mobile Photography: Columbus (<http://www.wearejuxt.com/2012/08/01/columbusohio/>).
